WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Nov. 26th, 1904.

Editor Press:—

All appearances indicate that the Administration will conduct the affairs of the nation on strictly business principles for the common good. The tone of the President's three last speeches pleading for race harmony, deprecating class distinctions, urging men and women to be strong and make the most of themselves, advocating the simple life and proclaiming religious toleration, indicates that so far as in him lies peace and good will shall prevail throughout the land, followed by a state of intelligent happiness heretofore unknown in America. On Wednesday last some Chicago gentleman called at the White House to ask the President to induce Secretary Hay to consent to deliver a speech on Washington's birthday before the Union League Club of that city. Mr. Roosevelt said that Mr. Hay's health is not such as to warrant his undertaking to prepare a speech of the nature indicated. He is crowded with diplomatic work and has yet to prepare a programme for the forth coming Hague conference. And while Congress is in session the work of the State Department will be augmented.

The President added that now that the campaign is over, and Secretary Taft, Shaw and Wilson have enlightened the people generally upon government matters, from Maine to California, he desires for the future that members of the Cabinet shall not be called upon to deliver addresses except when they may necessarily appear as public officers. He says so much speaking and traveling interferes with their proper work and retards business. Most people will agree with the President and applaud his determination.

Much to the delight of Massachusetts the anuouncement is made that Secretary Moody will remain in the Cabinet. The President is fond of him, and finds that they hold many views in common on the great sociological questions—capital and labor; improvement of moral and material conditions; the tariff, finances, trusts, etc. Mr. Moody is known to have the Beef Trust in hand, and the President has the highest confidence in his legal ability.

The fact that the President finished his Message before starting for St. Louis, and that it is now in proof, is thought here in Washington to indicate that itis a brief document recommending little legislation outside of the regular appropriation bills. These of themselves promise to call for enough money, and it would be unwise to disturb present business interests by introducing revolutionary legislation.

On all sides bureau chiefs are asking for more funds and more men. Government work increases so fast, as a result of the great undertaking in which it is engaged, that it is difficult to keep up with it. The Panama Canal will soon need many more men and much money. The Chief of the Bureau of Navagation asked for a general staff not unlike that provided for the army, to administer naval affairs, and says that the number of officers should be increased at least 50 per cent. He wants 600 lieutenants in the Navy and 300 lieutenant commanders. He urges that the United States must be prepared to meet any crisis at any time. He would have Congress authorize a naval reserve of 20,000 men with 500 commissioned officers.

The Observer.

Last week the Observer promised some discussion of the Independent's socialistic program. The subject is a wide one, and so he will touch only upon one or two points in connection with it.

In the first place, the Observer wishes to say that he has no intention of accusing the Independent of holding anarchistic doctrines. It is a common error to confound socialism with anarchism. This mistake arises in part, no doubt, from the fact that revolutionary socialists display an immediate attitude towards existing institutions that is practically the same as that of the revolutionary anarchists. Both advocate the use of violence, and they are often associated in their revolutionary efforts.

But socialism and anarchism, as abstract systems, are as wide apart as the poles. The theory underlying anarchism is that human society is better off without any kind of government or fixed institutions. It assumes that the law of nature implanted in each individual will prove an unerring guide to all that is right and good, provided that mischievous influence or external government be removed. The theory underlying socialism is that the whole people should constitute an organized government, and that the functions of government should embrace every possible sphere and detail of human activity. Anarchism means no government at all. Socialism means that every form of human activity should be administered as a government function. It is hard to see how two theories could be more widely or diametrically opposed than those of socialism and anarchism. It is towards the ideal of socialism that the Independent has now betrayed a learning, but by the same token we must acquit it of the charge of leaning towards anarchism. The Observer would add that he has no thought of charging the Independent with being affiliated to revolutionary socialism.

The Observer, however, does feel constrained to point out that the Independent is apparently unaware of the great inconsistency of professing to be an adherent of the principles of Thomas Jefferson and at the same time standing forth as a champion of the present socialistic movement in politics of which Mr. Bryan and Mr. Watson are representatives. The same inconsistency is chargeable also to these gentlemen, for each of them professes to be a true representative of the principles of Jefferson. It is really surprising that a man of Mr. Watson's intelligence and scholarship should persistently overlook the fact that Thomas Jefferson stood for political principles and ideals the very opposite of those of the socialistic democracy.

It was Jefferson's doctrine that the functions of government should be kept down to the lowest possible notch. As a theorist—not as a practical administrator—his view was a close approach to anarchism. So repugnant to his speculative view was the very idea of government, that he could scarcely be brought to assert that even the people should govern. It was entirely due to the efforts of such federalists as Hamilton, Adams, Franklin and Washington that any real functions were secured to the federal government when the Constitution was framed.

If Mr. Bryan and Mr. Watson stand for anything, it is for a great increase in the strength and in the extent of the powers of the general government. In this particular they would go much farther that even Washington or Hamilton ever dreamed of going, and yet Washington and Hamilton went much too far in this direction to please Jefferson. How Thomas Jefferson can be claimed as a sponser for the present socialistic tendencies of Messrs. Bryan and Watson and the Independent, is an exceedingly hard matter to understand. The Observer suspects that the Independent, at least, has gone into this movement unadvisedly and lightly. The Observer has said nothing thus far about the merits or demerits of the program of the socialistic democracy as outlined by the Independent, at present he is merely calling attention to the fact that the Independent, perhaps without being aware of it, has in reality cut loose from its old moorings, and is now sailing in political seas at the anticodes to Jeffersonianism.

Without wishing to be officious, the Observer ventures to think that it is up to the Independent either to haul down the Jeffersonian flag or else to retrace its course to the old moorings.

Educational Meeting at DuBois.

The Central Pennsylvania Round Table of Superintendents and principals, held its sixth annual session at DuBois, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 25th and 26th. Some of the questions discussed were: "Grouping of Children for Teaching Purposes," "Promotions and Examinations," "Common Errors in Teaching; Arithmetic," "Best Methods of Enforcing the Compulsory Attendance Law and How to Deal with Truants," "How Much Home Study Should be Required," "Professional Improvement of Teachers," "Teachers' Meetings When and How Often?". "Teachers' and Parents' Meetings." Principals Becht and Waller, of Clarion and Indiana State Normal School were present, County superintendents Fietrich, and Shields of Jefferson and Clearfield counties, Superintendent Lose, of Williamsport, and numerous principals of borough schools. Elk county was represented by Prof. Lynch, of St. Marys and Cameron by Prof. E. S. Ling, of Emporium. The next session will be held at Lock Haven some time next March, date to be announced later.

The Amphion Male Quartet.

The opening of the Peoples' Star Course, Thanksgiving night, with the Amphion Male Quartet, was not only successful from the point of view of the management, but in local musical circles of sufficient interest and importance to be classed with the leading events of the kind in the town's history. The length of the program, of eleven numbers was doubled by encores and even with this addition, the audience seemed unwilling to have the generous singers desist. The several quartets were given with a beauty and purity of tone and an evenness of balance that betokened careful training and diligent practice to secure the results achieved.

Individually the voices were strong. The tenor solo of Mr. Conor was truly an artistic treat, while the splendid bass of Mr. Cowperthwaite was heard in a number that afforded his auditors genuine pleasure. The Readings of Miss Nichols are worthy of unstinted praise. Her superior has not been heard here, and that is saying much, as Emporium has had the best. Exceptionally happy was the sketch, "A Leap Year Proposal," in which she had the assistance of Mr. Conor and wherein was featured some comedy acting that would have done credit to artists of greater pretentiousness.

The audience was capacity size.

A FEW POINTERS.

WHAT THE COURT SAYS IN REGARD TO NEWSPAPER SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The following is a synopsis of a ruling of the United States Supreme court in important cases regarding newspaper subscriptions:

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.

2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publisher may continue to send them until arrearages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the post-office to which they are directed they are responsible until after they have settled their bills and ordered their paper discontinued.

4. If subscribers move to another place without informing the publisher and the papers are sent to the former address, subscribers are held responsible.

5. The courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office or removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

6. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it and the subscriber be responsible until an express notice with payment of all arrears are sent to the publisher.

7. The latest postal laws are such, a newspaper publisher can arrest any one for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under the law the man who allows his subscription to run along for some time unpaid and then orders it discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused" and have a postal card sent notifying the publisher, leaves himself liable to arrest and fine, the same as for theft.

Sorely Afflicted.

Mrs. Grant S. Allen was called home, near New York city, last week, on account of the death of her father. This is the third death in her family within a few months—her mother and sister, and now father.

McClure's for December.

McClure's Magazine for December fairly radiates the spirit of Christmas. There is good cheer and pleasant entertainment, shining out of its pages. The magazine seems to grow richer, more varied, more brilliant, more authoritive. That rare combination of illuminating serious article and abserbing story is effected by Ray Stannard Baker in his story of the Garment Workers' strike, "The Rise of the Tailors." It includes an article, "The Increase of Lawlessness in the United States"' by S. S. McClure. Mr. McClure sees the worst, but hopes for the best. His statement of the case is powerful and convincing.

The fiction of this number is good. James Hopper leads with "A Jumble in Divinities," George Madden Martin's "God Rest You, Merry Christmas," Marion Hill's "His Journey to the Gates," Janet Remington's "The Way Wonderful," Herman Knickerbocker Viele's "The Money Meter," are about the people and things we all know. Mrs. Martin's is a Christmas story. Then there are more of the masterly studies of men and things in the rough, of that great America which lies far west of Hoboken. Rex. E. Beach describes a terrible contest of two miners with cold and hunger and distance in the Article circle, "The Test," Stewart Edward White continues his serial, "The Rawhide," O. Henry has a delightfully humorous sketch in "The Ransom on Mack." A collection of thrilling stories, is found in "Notes from a Trainer's Book," by Samuel Hopkins Adams.

John La Farge continues his discussion of the Masterpieces of Painting under the alluring head of "Allegories." George W. Alger writes of Ida M. Tarbell's marvelous "History of the Standard Oil Company," just published by McClure, Philips & Co. There are poems, "The Dream Child," by Florence Wilkinson, and a "Ballade of the Brave," by Richard Burton, which round out to completness this most attractive magazine.

Married at Emporium.

Norman H. Parks and Miss Annie Pond, both of this place, were married at Emperium last Friday. They are yet enjoying their honeymoon, but are expected home this evening, when the many friends of the bride and groom expect that there will be a rousing celebration. Mr. Parks is the efficient receiving clerk in the freight department at the P. & E. Station. Here's wishing them both a long and happy life.—Johnsonburg Press.

High School Library.

A recent addition to the High School Library is a set of twenty-two volumes of "The Historian's History of the World," an admittedly superior work of its kind. The set is the forty volumes of the "Wold's Best Literature" came as the gift of Mr. Josiah Howard, to whom our young people certainly owe a debt of gratitude. Another gift from the same gentleman is a picture "The Wave" seen recently in the art exhibit.

Ellsworth Plumstead.

The following sketch of Ellsworth Plumstead taken from a recent issue of "Talent" and constituting the foreward to his circular of advertisement, will serve to introduce our readers to the gentleman who will entertain the patrons of the Star Course, Thursday evening, Dec. 8th:

A many sided man is Ellsworth Plumstead. From grave to gay, from humorous to pathteic, from the sunshine of life to its shadows—in his profession of character sketch artist, monologist, this versatile genius steps from one portrayal to the other with the easy transition which at once pronounces him a master of his profession.

A native of Michigan, where he was born thirty-nine years ago, Mr. Plumstead has spent thirty years of his life in Detroit. A natural-born wag and mimic, he could never be persuaded to turn his talents to professional advantage until six years ago. Success rewarded his initial recital and since he made his first public appearance he has mounted into popular favor by successive leaps until he is to-day, perhaps, the foremost entertainer in his specialty before the American people.

Since his first bow he has made three separate tours to the Pacific Coast, and will go to the Western Chautauqua this summer for his fourth consecutive season.

Mr. Plumstead's greatest successes have been scored in "old man" "big kid," "Irish", "German," and negro dialect characterizations. Mr. Plumstead is not a dramatic impersonator in the sense of taking on the character of every person in a play at a single performance, but when it comes to "bits" be can throw side lights on famous characters of fiction, beside which the efforts of many good players seem small and trifling.

He had a strong leaning toward the operatic stage and studied under the best masters for years with the idea of preparing himself for such a career. That accounts largely for the charm of his wonderfully sympathetic, well modulated voice, an instrument which plays upon the strings of human hearts and moves his hearers alternately to tears or laughter.

Combine his physical qualifications with his close understanding of humau natnre and his ability to "take off" the people we see every day, and one can readily understand the secret of his success.

One of the most successful and popular entertainers on the lyceum platform to-day, Mr. Plumstead's constant devotion to his art is reflected in the noticeable growth of his work with each returning season.

Mrs. Auchu in a Serious Condition.

The PRESS readers acquainted with Mrs. Henry Auchu will deeply regret to learn that this excellent lady, who has been in poor health for some time, is in a very serious condition Dr. Mann come to Emporium yesterday and after consultation with Dr. Bardwell, decided to remove the patient to Buffalo, to his private Sanitarium for an operation. While the case is a serious one Dr. Mann speaks very hopeful of the outcome. Mr. Auchu accompanies his wife to Buffalo this afternoon and will remain there with his wife.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles, a social and fraternal order organized at Seattle, Washington, five years ago, now has a membership of more than 200,000 with Aeries in many of the principal towns of the West and East, and is one of the most flourishing orders in the country. Enough names have been secured to warrant the institution of an Aerie in Emporium, and we understand this will take place about the 20th of December. The exact date will be announced in these columns later.

Missionary Rally at Driftwood.

Last Friday, under the auspices of the Epworth League, a Missionary rally was held at Driftwood. Presiding Elder Wilcox, of Williamsport district presided. Dr. Taylor, of New York, addressed a large gathering in the evening. Prof Ling, of Emporium, discussed the subject, "The Layman, a Necessity in World Evangelism."

An Outrage.

A number of citizens are bitterly complaining about cattle being allowed to trample over the graves and graded lots in the cemetery. The proper authority should be prompt to put a stop to the practice of allowing the fences and gates to remain open. We regret to say the "city of the dead" is sadly neglected. Shame!

Arm Broken.

Mrs. Jacob Troup, of this place, who has been visiting relatives and friends in Cumberland county for several weeks, met with an accident last week, falling and breaking her left arm. Sixteen years ago she broke her right arm in the same manner.

Chas. Diehl's Up-to-date Grocery House will have an important annonncement in next issue of PRESS. It will be of great interest to the citizens of Cameron county.

Upon the return of John Crosby and bride from Shamokin, last Saturday night a reception was given in their honor at the home of the bride's sister Mrs. Vogt, of Spring street. About twenty-five guests were present.

The announcement is made of the marriage of Mr. Frank G. Carter and Miss Helen Bennett both of this City which was performed at Limestone, Wednesday, November 23rd, 1904 by Justice Vibbard. Mr. and Mrs. Carter will reside on High Street.—Bradford Daily Record.

The dwelling house of Mr. E. F. Comley at Cameron was discovered to be on fire last evening, but by timely assistance was extinguished without much damage being done. The fire is supposed to have started from a spark from a passing locomotive. Insured with F. G. Judd's agency, Emporium.

Death of an Aged Lady.

Mrs. Sallie Holcomb, who has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. A. Chase for the past year, died this morning at 8 o'clock at the age of 87 years. It will be remembered that last January the deceased fell on the ice and broke her hip. Because of her extreme age and the inability to give her opiates on account of weak heart action, she suffered intense pain, but gradually recovered from the fall, so as to be able to be up and walk about the house. Three weeks ago, however, she began to fail, gradually getting weaker and weaker. During these past three weeks she had suffered much pain in her stomach, being unable to take any nourishment for the past week, but her death was very peaceful. She did not regain consciousness this morning though she knew everyone yesterday.

Mrs. Holcomb was born October 5th, 1817 in Bradford county, in which county she has passed the most of her life. She was united in marriage to Hobart Holcomb, and four girls were born to them, two of whom are now living, Mrs. Dickinson, of Emporium and Mrs. Abram Chase of this boro.

Services will be held at the home of Mrs. Chase on E. Oak street at half past two to-morrow afternoon, Rev. E. M. Snodgrass officiating.—Coudersport Journal, Nov. 23.

Mankey Plant Sold.

Addison Candor, Esq., of Williamsport, Trustee, yesterday sold the real estate and the machinery in the building, to the First National Bank of Emporium, Pa., consideration, $5,100. The price paid was in addition to other claims held by the Bank. Several furniture men were here yesterday hoping to purchase the machinery. The Bank refuses to sell the machinery, it being their intention to use their influence to secure a practical firm to reestablish the plant. The right party will be given a bargain. Hopes are entertained that this once active hive of industry may be in full blast.

New Landlady.

Mrs. F. N. Taylor, Smethport, one of the most efficient and popular hotel ladies in this section, has been secured by Mr. Wheeler, in place of Mrs. E. M. Hurteau, who goes to Florida next Wednesday. The New Warner will not suffer under the direction of this pleasant lady.

Buy a Dog.

The swift set in New York has a new fad. It is so far-reaching in its capacity for burning up money that it promises to become popular with the class whose hours are all idle hours, and whose heaviest labor is the clipping of coupons, says the Cincinnati Post. If you are not the possessor of a Pomeranian dog, you might as well bid farewell to any idea of butting into the Four Hundred. A pup about the size of a rat, that can readily be carried in a shopping bag, has become the hall-mark of aristocracy in New York. The smaller the dog the more important the owner. Pomeranians have been sold for as high as $10,000. Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish paid $100 an ounce for hers, and the total cost of the animal was about $5,000. That society darling, Harry Lehr, has equipped his spaniel with a pair of emerald earrings and a ruby bracelet clasps one of the aristocratic hind legs of the brute. It was necessary for Mr. Lehr to do something pretty strenuous, else society might remember that a few years ago he was a peddler of wine and worked for a living. It is only a fad. It is simply a means by which a certain element in the so-called smart set can secure advertising and notoriety. And notoriety to those people is as the breath of life. It is more to them than the applause that greets the successful actor. They court publicity. They want to get into the newspapers, and so feverish is that desire that they do things that disgust saner folks, and they find a thrill in shocking the public. It is foolish, of course, but what are they to do? They have money; they do not have to work, and so they will not work. Ordinary methods of securing pleasure have lost their savor, and so we have the great American vaudeville, in which men and women caper and cut up, throw vast sums to the birds, and are really so simple-minded as to call it pleasure. If you like that sort of thing, you can get a place on the stage if you are the owner of a high-priced Pomeranian.

Advertising Pays.

The man who would be successful must let the world know that he wants to succeed. In this day and time the gum shoe seldom treads the path to victory of one kind or another. Who is not familiar with the mustached face and unusually high forehead of the man who is to be the next governor of Massachusetts? All of us have seen it in print practically every day for a long time, and the west knew it as well as the east, says the Indianapolis News. When the democrats of Massachusetts nominated William L. Douglas as their candidate for governor, there was no need to explain who he was. No one asked, because every one knew. And when Mr. Douglas entered his new sphere of activity he did not fall into the ways of those who were already there. He had methods of his own which he had tried and found effective. Printers' ink and paste were among his most able lieutenants, and the people of Massachusetts knew from the advertising columns of the public prints, which were freely used, and from the billboards all over the state that the man who had been successful in one way was determined to be successful in another. Mere political schemes were not depended on; statements, interviews and the like, which so often fail short of the multitude, were supplanted by the means which never fail to reach.

It is a year of big crops, including that of republican votes, says the Troy Times. The returns from Europe show that the grain yield in most countries of the continent has been exceptional. This is conspicuously true of Russia, in some parts of which the grain is so abundant that the peasant farmers have difficulty in finding storage room for it. It is a notable coincidence that Japan, which relies chiefly on rice for food, also has a big showing for its staple, the output being 20 per cent. above the average. This abundance means that both countries will have sufficient food, even if the war and its waste continues for many months longer. Yet it also accentuates the fact that such strife is costly. But for the war there might be a profitable sale of the surplus.

THE COMING OPPOSITION.

Probable Coalition and Creed of the Democracy for the Next Campaign.

What sort of a reorganization and realignment will take place in the democratic party in the next four years? What kind of a coalition and a creed will the republican party have to fight in 1908? These are queries of some interest to democrats, populists, socialists, republicans and all other political elements. It is generally assumed that the radicals of the democracy will be in the ascendant in that party by the time the campaign of 1908 opens, and that these are to be the force which the republican party will be called upon to combat. Mr. Debs, on the other hand, says that the democratic party will disintegrate, as a result of its crushing defeat last week, and that the socialist party will take its place. As Debs was the presidential candidate of the social democratic party in the two latest national elections, and as he polled a considerable vote, his words on this point will have some weight. Debs had 88,000 votes in 1900. He got at least 600,000 in 1904, and the total, when all the returns are in, may go above that figure.

But the rest of the radicals are not in agreement with Mr. Debs. Thomas E. Watson, who probably received in the neighborhood of 500,000 votes as the standard bearer of the populist party in the canvass just closed, says, too, that the democratic party must now go to pieces, and that a reorganization will take place on lines similar to those on which the populists made their recent fight. He derides the idea that his old friend Bryan will be able to galvanize any new life into the democratic party. The populist creed includes these tenets, among others: The national ownership of the railways, the telegraphs and the telephones; an income tax; postal savings banks; the initiative and referendum; governmental control of all money issues, depriving the national banks of the privilege of emitting currency; local option on the liquor question throughout the country; the election of the president, United States senators and federal judges by direct vote of the people; reduction in the army and navy, and, of course, the free coinage of silver at the 16 to 1 ratio. This is the programme which the populists want to set up for the coalition which it to fight the republican party in 1908, although neither the populists nor the socialists care much about free silver, preferring greenbacks to coin of any sort.

Messrs. Bryan, Hearst and the other radicals who are in good standing in the democratic party are the men who will shape the creed of the republicans' opponent four years hence and put up the candidates. Most of the things that the populists put forward could be accepted by the Bryanite section of the democratic party. Bryan himself has come out in favor of ownership of the railways by the individual states, which would be a more drastic and demoralizing move than the ownership of the national government, for 45 masters for the railways would introduce a chaos in the management of these big and important interests which would dislocate all industry and threaten the foundations of society. Nevertheless, the democratic party is the organization which will make the fight against the republicans four years hence. Debs' and Watson's assertions that the democracy is dead for good this time will not be accepted by many persons who have followed the history of that organization. The democracy has met many staggering defeats, though the last was a little more sweeping and humiliating than any of its previous disasters. Still, that party will keep up its organization. It will alter its creed and its leadership in the next year or two, but the name will stick, and many of those who voted for Parker recently will support the man who is to be put up in the next national convention. It will be the democratic party that the republicans will meet in 1908, but it will be a Bryanized and Hearstized party, in which the fighting ingredient will be at the front, and which will be able to make a more picturesque and stirring campaign than that which Parker and his followers put up.

PARAGRAPHIC COMMENT.

☞Mr. Bryan sees some silver threads among the gold and is happy therein.—Cincinnati Commercial.

☞The democratic party has got to stand for something before the country will stand for it.—Indianapolis (Ind.) News.

☞Judge Parker's notion that the democratic party has a great future before it may be all right, but does he think the party will ever catch up with the present?—Philadelphia Press.

☞"Keep your eye on Bryan!" prophetically exclaims the Topeka Capital. Mr. Bryan will undertake personally to see that nobody loses sight of him for the next four years.—Chicago Tribune.

☞It should be said in justice to the solitary democratic legislator elected in Nebraska that he has neither written an address to his party nor taken a step for its reorganization.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

☞The spectacle is now presented of two disreputable factions of the democratic party flying at each other's throats in rage over the result of last Tuesday's election. The Hearst papers are scoring the Parker-Belmont-Tammany gang as "enemies of the common people," while the New York Daily News, the Tammany democratic organ, is reading the Hearst crowd out of the party as traitors to the cause. When such elements fall out the decent section has its just dues. An entire elimination of the whole disreputable outfit would be a godsend to the democratic party.—Burlington Hawkeye.

GOOD FEELING NOW ASSURED

Beneficient Conditions Will Undoubtedly Result from Roosevelt's Election.

Since election day President Roosevelt's energetic mind has been working along lines that, while not entirely new, cannot fail of attracting the gratification of the American public, says the Indianapolis Star. A dispatch to the Star thus interprets the president's mind:

"During his incumbency in office he will mingle with the masses, visiting the great cities and learning for himself what the people need, what policy they favor, what business changes must be brought about by legislation; in fine, what can be done to increase the happiness, prosperity and contentment of the masses. He will ignore the recommendations of politicians and the behests of party organizations. He will appoint to federal office only such men as are acceptable to the people, and in his selections for office he will not be influenced by senators, representatives or by any leaders. Mr. Roosevelt will invade the south with arms wide open. He will declare that he has never sought to establish race equality. He does not consider this possible or desirable. He will assert that his only idea is to recognize manhood wherever it is found, either in black or white, and that he seeks to elevate manhood in the negro. He believes that such action will establish better feeling between the north and the south."

The president has undoubtedly argued that the unanimity that characterized his late election warrants him in making a departure. He realizes that the enormous and flattering vote given him was not confined to the republican party, but came from all parties. He is warranted in the belief that he is, for the coming four years, to be the president of the whole people, in fact and name, because the latter have so willed it.

It is a beautiful idea, and carried to logical conclusion cannot fail of being of great benefit to the country. If it is possible for the president, in the midst of pressing official duties, to go among the people and study their affairs and conditions with a purpose of bettering them, Abraham Lincoln's desire—the desire born of Gettysburg and Appomattox—will be nearer realized than ever. Then, indeed, will it be impossible for "a government of the people, by the people and for the people" to perish from the earth.

And a constitutional blessing falls benignly upon the president's plan. The "welfare of the people" was vouchsafed the residents of the United States by that great instrument, and one important purpose of the visits and studies of the executive will be to make happy the countrymen who have expressed so splendidly their confidence in him.

NO SENSATIONAL AFFAIR.

Subject of Tariff Revision Will Not Be Allowed to Disturb National Tranquility.

All sensible men know and admit that the Dingley tariff schedules are not sacred. In due time it will be in order doubtless to consider the revision of them in cases that show inequity or oppression.

However, the current suggestion, said to emanate from Washington, that it is necessary to take up tariff revision right after the inauguration—that it is necessary to tear up the industrial earth and rend the business heavens by calling an extra session of congress expressly to revise the tariff—is unworthy of sensible Americans and especially sensible republicans, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

The incoming congress was elected with no special mandate to revise the tariff. Neither was it elected with a special mandate against tariff revision. The tariff was not a vital issue in the campaign. The policy of protection was approved merely as one of the many republican policies passed upon at the polls on November 8. The schedules therefore are open, as ever, to review. That is all.

The Fifty-ninth congress will be unusually free to deal with the tariff calmly and rationally and objectively. It was chosen under no special pressure for or against tariff changes. It was elected to proceed with policies under which the nation has prospered, and to improve those policies wherever possible. It has no call whatever to act with breakneck speed and in special session.

A national administration is not a three-ring circus. It is not bound to present a sensational novelty every season. Its duty is rather to avoid sensationalism.

Therefore, let us all be calm. Let us not endanger the beneficient result of the election by hysterics or panics. Let us be sober-minded, and, when we take up tariff revision, do so in the regular orler of business.

☞As the harvest fields are yielding up their riches the men of the city are busy erecting new buildings. Along country lanes and city pavements the nation is busy. Prosperity is general. The sound of the hammer and saw echoes the sound of the reaper. And this activity, in addition to being general, is natural. Better still, it promises to continue. The statistical reports of the various trades and occupations of the nation are poor campaign documents for the calamity howlers this year.—Des Moines Register.

CAUGHT IN ENGLAND.

Man Who Stole Nearly $30,000 from His Employer Hunted Down.

New York, Nov. 25.—James Wallace, who is charged with the theft of stock certificates valued at nearly $30,000 from Edward M. Breitung, a Marquette, Mich., banker, by whom he was employed as confidential secretary, has been arrested in Liverpool. Nearly $25,000 of the sum alleged to have been stolen from Breitung was recovered. Arrangements are now being made looking to the extradition of Wallace to this country.

Wallace fled from Marquette on October 30, leaving word with his employer that he was going to an Illinois institution for the cure of inebriety. When he did not return Mr. Breitung began an investigation with the result that 850 shares of Michigan copper mining stock and 200 shares of United States Steel preferred stock were found to be missing.

He at once reported the case to the American Bankers' association, with the result that a search was begun for Wallace. It was found that he took passage from Boston on the Cunard liner Saxonia for Liverpool on November 12 with a woman said to be his wife, under the name of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson. It was subsequently learned that Wallace had obtained a letter of credit in Boston for £4,400. When the steamer reached England a detective was at the pier and the man and woman who had gone over under the name of Wilson were followed until the man was positively identified as Wallace. Wallace was then taken into custody. The £4,400 and the money which Wallace had in his possession was recovered.

SOLD FOR $15,000.

Major Delmar, the World's Champion Trotting Gelding, Is Bought by C. K. G. Billings.

New York, Nov. 25.—Major Delmar, the world's champion trotting gelding, with an unpaced trotting record of 2:01¼ and a paced trotting record of 1:59¾, was sold at the Old Glory sale at Madison Square Garden Thursday for $15,000. The purchaser was C. K. G. Billings, owner of Lou Dillon. It was announced that Mr. Billings would race Major Delmar and Lou Dillon in an effort to break the world's record.

Major Delmar was consigned by E. E. Smathers, who bought him last year for $40,000.

The record price thus far at the sale was paid for Sadie Mac, another of the E. E. Smathers string, who was bought by Miss Kate L. Wilks, of Galt, Ont., for $15,500. Miss Wilks is the owner of Oro Wilkes and of several horses that won blue ribbons at the horse show last week.

Prince Alert, the world's champion pacing gelding, with a race record of 1:59½, and a record of 1:57 with a wind shield, was sold to Edward Mitchell, of New York, for Walter Wyman, of London, for $2,600.

Grace Bond, the champion 3-year-old trotter of 1904, consigned by James Y. Gatcomb, was sold to Alonzo G. Maynard, of New York, for $13,000.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Crew of an American Vessel that was Wrecked Suffered Great Hardships.

Astoria, Ore., Nov 25.—With three men of her crew missing and probably drowned, with her decks awash and the surviving members of her crew nearly exhausted from five days' exposure to the elements, the American barkentine Webfoot, waterlogged and dismasted, has been towed into port here. Capt. Lewis reports that while his vessel rolled in the heavy seas off the mouth of the Columbia river, threatening every moment to go to the bottom, three steam schooners bound south and three bound north passed him, yet none offered him assistance.

The appearance of the San Francisco liner George W. Elder saved their lives. For five days the crew of the barkentine were huddled on the top of the cabin with no protection whatever from the gale. Excepting a few raw potatoes the men had nothing to eat and only such water as could be secured by catching rain in their oilskin hats. Capt. Lewis states that he could not possibly have survived two days longer.

PATTERSON MURDER TRIAL.

Many Witnesses Gave Their Testimony.

New York, Nov. 23.—Several unusual features were presented in the supreme court yesterday in the trial of Nan Patterson for the alleged murder of Caesar Young. Frederick D. Michaels, the cabman, described the cab in which Young met his death. During the day a skeleton and two pieces of skin from Young's second finger were produced in court by the prosecution. The skeleton was shown in order that the course of the bullet that killed Young might be traced.

New York, Nov. 24.—In the trial of Nan Patterson, charged with the murder of Caesar Young, the expert testimony of physicians was offered yesterday to show that Young could not have killed himself; two cabmen testified to having seen Young abuse Miss Patterson early in the morning of June 4, and another witness, a newsboy, swore that he saw Morgan Smith, her brother-in-law, strike Miss Patterson in the face on the night of June 3, after Smith had said to her "You will have to do it," and she had answered: "I won't."

Daly Won the Championship.

New York, Nov. 25.—John J. Daly, of Galway, Ireland, running in the colors of the Greater New York Irish Athletic association, won the A. A. U. individual cross country championship of the metropolitan district at Travers Island yesterday. The team honors went to the Xavier Athletic association, which was the first to have five men cross the finish line. The distance was a little over six miles and Daly's time was 33:11. Over 40 runners started in the junior championship and the individual honors were won by Michael Spring, of this city.

WITH DUKES AND THINGS.

Newcomer in Society Who Got Mixed Up with Persons of Title.

Mrs. Porkdollars has not as yet got over the novelty of riches. At the same time she is not inclined to admit this, and it is her great desire, relates London Answers, that the society with which she is now entitled to mix by virtue of her husband's wealth shall think she was born in the purple.

Recently she was at a big dinner party, and as she was being piloted from drawing-room to dining-room, she noticed a marble bust on one of the pillars in the hall.

"Do you know who that is?" she inquired of her cavalier.

"That is Marcus Aurelius," was the answer.

"Oh, is it, now?" ejaculated the lady. "But can you tell me," she added promptly, "whether it is the present markis or the late markis? I do get so mixed up with your dukes and things!"

Time to Move.

"I was moved once by the notes of a little bird," said the romantic young man.

"So was I," spoke his friend.

"Canary bird?"

"No, cuckoo. I was calling on my girl and when the cuckoo called 11 times I knew it was my move."—Chicago Daily News.

Good News for All.

Bradford, Tenn., Nov. 21 (Special)—Scientific research shows Kidney Trouble to be the father of so many diseases that news of a discovery of a sure cure for it cannot fail to be welcomed all over the country. And according to Mr. J. A. Davis of this place just such a cure is found in Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Davis says:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills are all that is claimed them. They have done me more good than anything I have ever taken. I had Kidney Trouble very bad and after taking a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I am completely cured. I cannot praise them too much."

Kidney Complaint develops into Bright's Disease, Dropsy, Diabetes, Rheumatism, and other painful and fatal diseases. The safeguard is to cure your kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills when they show the first symptom of disease.

The secret of happiness is not to let your troubles bother you any more than they bother your friends.—Puck.

THE PILLS THAT

CURE RHEUMATISM

Mrs. Henry Story, of No. 532 Muskingdum Ave., Zanesville, Ohio, says: "My husband suffered from rheumatism so that he could hardly stand. His back hurt and he had such pain in his left arm that he could not rest night or day. The doctor did him no good and it was not until he tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that he was helped. Six boxes cured him completely and he has not had an ache or a pain since. We think the pills are the best medicine in the world."

THE PRESIDENT AT ST. LOUIS.

"Delighted!"

ROOSEVELT'S ST. LOUIS TRIP.

ENTHUSIASTIC GREETINGS GIVEN HIM ALONG LINE OF JOURNEY.

VERY FEW SPEECHES WERE MADE.

A Live Coon Was Presented to President Roosevelt at Denison, O.—Every Precaution Will be Taken to Protect Him

Indianapolis, Nov. 26.—After traversing Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and Indiana, President Roosevelt last night journeyed across Illinois en route to St. Louis, where for two days he and his party will be the guests of the officials of the Louisiana Purchase exposition.

The feature of the journey from Washington to Indianapolis was the enthusiasm with which the president everywhere was received. Every station through which the special train passed was thronged with people anxious even to catch a glimpse of the president.

The most notable demonstration of the day was given the president at Pittsburg. The station where the train stopped for a few minutes was thronged, but only a fractional part of the crowd was permitted on the platform near the train.

To them the president expressed his pleasure at the opportunity afforded him to see them and added: "You may depend upon it, I will do all that in me lies to show you that you made no mistake on November 8."

Throughout the run of the train through the city President Roosevelt remained on the rear platform of his car, bowing and waving his hat to the crowds of people assembled along the railroad track. The windows of factories along the line were filled with faces of workmen who cheered and waved hats and hands as the train swept by.

At Steubenville, O., the station platform was banked with men, women and children, scores of whom waved American flags.

A live coon was presented to the president at Denison, O., where the train stopped for a few minutes. After the president had greeted the people and as the train was pulling out of the station a man swung the coon over the railing of the car platform and shouted:

"Take him, he will bring you good luck."

When the president laughed and shook his head deprecatingly the man again shouted:

"You must take him. I'm a life long democrat and I wish you good luck."

Attached to the chain around the animal's neck was a card bearing this inscription:

"Compliments of Tuscaraws county, Ohio. Plurality for Roosevelt 2,224, for Bryan in 1900, 613. Presented by O. J. Strope, Denison, Ohio."

The coon will be taken to Washington and placed in the national zoological park.

When the train pulled into the station at Columbus the president's car was surrounded by a great crowd. The president was cheered heartily as he stepped out on the platform. He spoke as follows:

"I want to say what a pleasure it is to me to be traveling through your great state and now to be at its capital. I have enjoyed my trip through the state and perhaps you will pardon my saying it, I enjoyed even more what you did on November 8."

St. Louis, Nov. 26.—The exposition management, police officials, government secret service officers and those in command of United States troops on duty at the world's fair, have completed arrangements for the protection of President Roosevelt from any possible harm during his visit to the exposition.

The Union Pacific Buys a Railroad.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—The Post says: The report that the Union Pacific has purchased the Chicago Great Western road was reiterated Friday with such positiveness and circumstantial evidence in its favor that it received general acceptance. The deal, which has been pending for some time, was said to have been closed and the Chicago Great Western will shortly lose its identity as an independent road and either be wholly absorbed by the Union Pacific itself, or distributed piecemeal among the eastern connections of that system.

GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENT.

A C. & P. Flyer Struck a Trolley Car —Nineteen Persons Were Injured, Two Fatally.

Cleveland, Nov. 26.—Nineteen persons were hurt, two fatally, when the Cleveland & Pittsburg flyer struck a southbound A., B. & C. car at Ward's crossing, one and a half miles south of Bedford, at 8:30 a. m. Friday.

The rear of the traction car was torn from the tracks and carried a quarter of a mile on the pilot of the locomotive. Many of the passengers in the car were thrown high into the air, while others were pinned under the debris of the wrecked car, which was literally torn to pieces by the flyer.

The traction car was in charge of Conductor Sells and Motorman Harry Terbush, two of the oldest men in the employ of the company. The car had stopped at the crossing to wait for a milk train to pass. Sells walked to the derailing lever, which is ten feet north of the C. & P. tracks. As the last car on the milk train passed him, he gave the signal to go ahead and threw the switch.

The traction car had reached the middle of the tracks when Terbush saw the flyer almost upon him. He turned the power full on and the car shot forward. At the same instant Engineer Matt Baldwin, in charge of the flyer, saw the car, which had been hidden by the milk train. He applied the emergency brakes. In another second the engine had struck the car, throwing the rear trucks up onto a three-foot embankment, ripping the rear platform loose and hurling the passengers into the air.

The front of the car was tossed against a trolley post, breaking it, and carrying a mass of wires to the ground.

The impact of the collision threw the pilot trucks of the engine from the track and the locomotive plowed along the ties for a quarter of a mile.

When Fireman William A. Wilber saw that an accident could not be avoided he jumped, but Baldwin stuck to his post, his hand "on the air." Baldwin said that the train was running about 55 miles an hour at the time. Ward's crossing is at the top of a sharp grade.

REVIEW OF TRADE.

Manufacturers are Extending Operations and Mills that Were Idle are Resuming.

New York, Nov. 26.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly Review of Trade says:

Retail and jobbing trade was retarded by unseasonably mild weather and the interruption of another holiday, but manufacturers extend operations as confidence is strengthened by the receipt of large contracts for future delivery, and many inquiries that promise to mature in something more tangible. Postponed orders of all kinds are being placed, reports from every prominent industry indicating that idle mills are reopening and the number of operatives gradually increasing.

Cotton spinning makes the slowest progress. Other textiles and all branches of the iron and steel industry are gaining steadily. Some delay is noted in the movement of freight, while railway returns for November thus far show a gain of 6.06 per cent. over last year's gross earnings.

Failures this week numbered 205 in the United States, against 258 last year, and in Canada 39, compared with 14 a year ago.

Great Rush of Immigrants.

New York, Nov. 26.—So great has been the rush of immigrants to this port within the past few days that the immigration station at Ellis Island was crowded yesterday and several thousand steerage passengers were forced to remain last night on board the steamers on which they arrived from Europe. When the Baltic came in during the forenoon with a steerage list of 1,700, the officials of the steamer were informed that there was no room for them on the island.

Paralysis Followed a Hazing.

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—The hazing of Albert De Rome by his fellow students of the Mark Hopkins Institute of Art promises to result in severe trouble to those who participated in the affair. Louis De Rome, of Oakland, an uncle of the youth, declares that he will cause the arrest and criminal prosecution of the persons who maltreated his nephew. Albert De Rome, the victim, is still without the use of his lower limbs, which were partially paralyzed when he was subjected to repeated shocks in an electric chair by a number of young men.

EDITORIAL MENTION.

Judge Parker is in luck, financially speaking. The Supreme Court of New York has given him two commissionership appointments, worth from $5,000 to $7,000 each. At this rate he will soon have a law practice as large as a United States Senator's.

Illinois having raised $50,000 towards the McKinley memorial to be built at Canton, Ohio, it is now stated that the fund of $600,000 has been secured. This is the largest sum of money ever raised in so short a time to build a monument for a President.

It is pleasant to note that owing to the steady increase in railroad traffic some 30,000 railway employes, who were laid off last spring, have returned to work, most of them in shops. The Pennsylvania road has taken back 11,000 men.

After considerable discussion the American Federation of Labor, in session in San Francisco, has voted to aid the striking textile workers in Fall River, Mass., to the extent of $75,000. As the mills are open for all who wish to work it seems unnecessary to prolong the strike. The Federation considered a government pension for all persons over sixty who have earned no more than $1,000 a year, by paying them $12 a month.

Two hundred farmers of Dunklin county, Missouri, have petitioned the legislature of that state to cede their county to Arkansas, as "they are too self respecting to reside in a state which has gone Republican." This is taking defeat pretty hard, but it is a questiion whether a state would be allowed to cede a county to another state even if disposed to do so, and even if the reason were sane.

A short time ago it was said that Gen. Black would be made commisioner of Pensions, to succeed Mr. Ware, since the President wishes for a younger and more active man at the head of the Civil Service Bureau. Notwithstanding this statement it is now said that Senator Cockrill, a man considerably older than Gen. Black, is likely to be made the chief of the Civil Service. There must be a mistake somewhere. Only the President knows who will be the new commissioners.

Heals Everything.

It beats anything in the healing line we ever used. My little girl had been troubled with dark purple sores on her legs for two months. She Struck Luck.

About six years ago I sent to the store for some medicine and they sent me some Thompson's Barosma or Kidney and Liver Cure. The first bottle did me so much good that I bought the second and it cured me of female weakness, with which I had been troubled over two years. I gained in strength and flesh and have been well ever since. Mrs. M. Grove, Plum, Pa. For sale by R. C. Dodson.

THE CHRISTIAN churches at Constantinople, Turkey, and Yokahoma, Japan, have long used the Longman & Martinez Paints for painting their churches.

Liberal contributions of L. & M. Paint will be given for such purpose wherever a church be located.

F. M. Scofield, Harris Springs, S. C., writes: "I painted our old homestead with L. & M. twenty-six years ago. Not painted since, looks better than houses painted in the last four years."

W. B. Barr, Charleston, W. Va., writes, "Painted Frankenburg Block with L. & M. shows better than any buildings here have ever done; stands out as though varnished, and actual cost of paint was less than $1.20 per gallon. Wears and covers like gold."

Beware of Counterfeits.

"DeWitt's is the only genuine Witch Hazel Salve" writes J. L. Tucker, of Centre, Ala. "I have used it in my family for Piles, Cuts and Burns for years and can recommend it to be the best Salve on the market. Every family should keep it, as it is an invaluable household remedy, and should always be kept on hand for immediate use." Mrs. Samuel Gage, of North Bush, N Y., says: "I had a fever sore on my ankle for twenty years that the doctors could not cure. All salves and blood remedies proved worthless. I could not walk for over two years. Finally I was persuaded to try DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which has completely cured me. It is a wonderful relief." DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salves cures without leaving a scar. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

A Continual Strain.

Many men and women are constantly subjected to what they commonly term "a continual strain" because of some financial or family trouble. It wears and distresses them both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments, with the attendant evils of constipation, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, low vitality and dispondency. They cannot, as a rule, get ride of this "continual strain," but they can remedy its health destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, insures healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being, and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain." Trial bottle of August Flower, 25c; regular size, 75. At all druggists.

Material Used In Making Note Paper.

It is not a pleasant thought that the brilliant white note paper which your hand rests upon may have in it the fibers from the filthy garment of some Egyptian fellah after it has passed through all the stages of decay until it is saved by a ragpicker from the gutter of an Egyptian town, and yet it is a fact that hundreds of tons of Egyptain rags are exported every year into America to supply our paper mills. At Mannheim, on the Rhine, the American importers have their ragpicking houses where rags are collected from all over Europe, the disease infected Levant not excepted, and where women and children, too poor to earn a better living, work day after day, with wet sponges tied over their mouths, sorting these filthy scraps for shipment to New York. Our best papers are made of these rags and our common ones of wood pulp, which is obtained by grinding and macerating huge blocks from some of our soft wooded forest trees.—National Geographic Magazine.

The First Locomotive In Maine.

The first locomotive used in the state of Maine came from England, having been built at the works of Robert Stephenson & Co. in the year 1835, and made its first trip over the Bangor, Oldtown and Milford railroad on Aug. 19, 1837. This road was then generally known as the "Veazie road," and the track was made of wooden rails strapped with iron. The shackles used to connect the engine and cars were made of three thicknesses of sole or belt leather held together by copper rivets and had a hole in each end so as to hook over an upright stationary pin bolted or driven into a rigid beam extending from the end of the car. It is said that for a time the engine was run in opposition to a six ox team employed by a Bangor lumber dealer who was not willing to pay the rates charged on the railroad, and it was not until the management of the line came to what he considered fair charges that he turned his traffic over to it.

In Nature's Wonderland.

There is but one Grand canyon. The name should never have been given to lesser gorges. The very fact that there is a so called Grand canyon in Colorado is misleading. "The Grand canyon of Colorado" does not sound much different from "the Grand canyon of the Colorado." Hence many people confuse them.

The canyon of the Colorado river, which flows through Arizona, forms the boundary line between that territory and California and then empties into the gulf of California.

It is the grandest gorge in the world. In it 3,000 of the wonderful gorges of the state of Colorado could be buried. With its tributaries, many of which have never yet been explored, it would reach, if all the canyons were placed one after another, nearly around the world.—Four Track News.

The Queer Man.

Of all forms of temper there is none more tiresome to deal with than that which is known as "queer." Down comes a bolt from the blue in the midst of apparent sunshine, and a sudden gloom and moroseness hide our friend completely from our view. An injured attitude is assumed, a martyr's halo carefully pinned on, and happy, everyday life becomes an impossibility. People who want to be loved or even liked should never be difficult. Society has not time, even if it had the inclination, to study their idiosyncrasies and play up to all their petty prejudices. The passionate and even the sulky temper is forgiven sooner than the difficult one and is perhaps more possible to cure.—Edith H. Fowler in London Mail.

Lovely Liverpool Lasses.

Can you or your readers give any explanation of the remarkably heavy percentage of splendidly handsome ladies to be seen in Liverpool's city thoroughfares? When I say handsome, I refer not only to facial beauty, but also to symmetry of form and perfect physique. Walk from the Central station via Lord street to, say, the Landing stage, any day in the week, and you will behold a phalanx of superb womanhood. I am a Manchester man by birth and sentiment, but I must confess our city can produce nothing to compare with Liverpool's battallons of tall, lovely girls.—St. James' Gazette.

Effectually Suspended.

Only one dog has ever had the audacity to enter parliament during the proceedings. A hundred years ago the lords were thrown into consternation by a dog's entry. Lord North was addressing the house, and the dog promptly proceeded to bark furiously at him. Lord North, considerably upset, moved that the member who was interrupting him should be suspended. Thereupon the dog was driven out and suspended in such a manner that he never interrupted again.—London Opinion.

The Number Forty In the Bible.

The rain that produced the flood fell for forty days and forty nights, and after it ceased it was forty days before Noah opened the ark. Moses was forty days on the mountain fasting, and the spies spent forty days investigating matters in Canaan before making their report. Elijah fasted forty days in the wilderness, and Jonah gave the people of Nineveh forty days in which to repent. The forty days' fast of Jesus is known to all readers of the New Testament.

"Eddie, do you know what happens to bad little boys?"

"Yes'm; the bears eat 'em up."

DEBSE.

Camels In War.

The camel is a good soldier. It may be stupidity, and it may be bravery, but a camel is as steady under fire as a tower. The Persians mounted small cannon on the backs of their camels and called them zambwahs, or little wasps. This fashion was adopted in India, and after the battle of Sobraon 2,000 of the artillery camels were captured. In the Indian mutiny the British had a camel corps of 150 beasts, and on the back of each camel sat a Scotch highlander in his kilt.

In 1878 the British used camels against the Afghans, and the government paid for 50,000 camels that died in those campaigns. Many of these were driven to death by their owners in order that they might claim the government bounty. There was also a camel corps which did good service in the Sudan war against the mahdi.

EAST HUNTLEY.

Editor Press:—

On looking over the silly writing of A. J. Ajax from Huntley, I observed that the writer is either "loony" or else he has been misinformed about some of the items which appeared some time ago, concerning him and that young lady's wedding garments, etc. I want it distinctly understood that at the time these items were printed that I was not correspondent, and beside that, they did not appear in the "Gazette," but in the PRESS. The few items which appeared in the "Gazette" last spring about the jewelry store, and the watch and ring were not written by me either, I can prove myself clear by the editor. Mr. Ajax, if you think there is no danger of involving your paper in a liable suit, just keep on a little longer and see the result.

Yours truly,
T. W. KAILBOURN.

[Our correspondents will suit the PRESS editor if they cease these personal items. They are not news and only cause heart burns. Stop it.]—EDITOR.

The Deadliest Poison.

Cyanide of potassium and hydrocyanic or prussic acid are considered by most people to be about the most poisonous of known substances. This is an error. They are the most rapidly acting of all poisons, but not the most potent. One drop of pure prussic acid placed in the eye of a large dog will kill it within two seconds, and such a dose will kill a man. But there is an alkaloid in aconite root called pseudaconitine, one three-hundredth part of a grain of which will kill a moderate sized animal. This is the deadliest poison known, being 300 times as toxic as prussic acid.

Falland Winter Clothing

YOU thus have a larger assortment to select from, and you get longer wear for the same outlay, with the added satisfaction of being among the first to appear in up-to-date apparel.

The four button Sack Suits shown in the picture will appeal to good dressers who want to be just a little in advance of the "merchant tailor's styles."

They have broad shoulder and chest effect which gives a full substantial appearance to the wearer without that stuffed and padded look so common in other lines of ready made Clothing.

Think of buying a suit like this in any of the popular spring fabrics.

At so little a Price as

THIS is an ideal suit for business men who know the value of "looking prosperous." It is the product of the art-tailors of Schloss Bros. & Co., whose clothing we handle. Before you buy your Spring Suit, "drop in and let us talk it over."

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Coutributions invited. That which you would like to see in this department, let us know by postal card or letter, personally.

Mrs. W. H. Morse, of Cameron, was guest of Mrs. J. R. Fetter one day last week.

Judge Walker, we regret to inform, the PRESS readers, is not so well this week.

Mrs. Mark Ellis was visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Swallow at Elbon, Pa.

Mrs. M. M. Larrabee returned Saturday, from an extended visit with her son, Don. M. Larrabee and wife, at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Pearsall, of Coudersport, who has been visiting her sons and daughters in town for several weeks, returned home on Monday.

Should severe cold weather set in, without rain, our people will auffer for want of water. There has been very little rain during the past month.

Mrs. E. C. Davison, and Miss Mary Davison, of Johnsonburg, visited in Emporium over Sunday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thompson and family.

R. M. Crum, of Sinnamahoning, transacted business in Emporium Tuesday evening and called at the PRESS office for a social chat. He will read the PRESS during 1905.

J. K. Jordan and B. J. Collins spent three days hunting for deer near Medix Run, last week. They missed every deer in that section, including the one Stahly chased for four days.

Mrs. J. K. Jordan and Miss Rena, returned home on Sunday from visiting relatives at Lock Haven. Mrs. Anna Flemming, Mrs. Jodan's mother, returned home with them to spend the winter months here.

Miss Nellie Hogan, of Emporium, was the guest of Conductor and Mrs. P. O'Connor one day this week...B.W. Green, Esq., had business in town Saturday and found time to make this office a pleasant call—Driftwood Gazette.

Master Earl Towner, of West Creek, visited in Emporium on Saturday and took his father, Delbert Towner, Sec'y of Shippen school board, in hand and showed hin the sights of town, winding up the day with a visit to PRESS office. Dell never had such a large time.

Several young lady enthusiasts accompanied the foot ball team to Renovo Thanksgiving day and "rooted" for the boys. The rooting, however, was not successful, the home team being defeated by a score of 8 0. A return game, on the home field, is being arranged for Saturday December 3rd.

Martin Cummings, of Emporium, was a Renovo visitor yesterday and a pleasant caller at this office. Mr. Cummings intended going to Hyner yesterday afternoon to look after his interests in the gas field but through some misunderstanding he missed the train. He went to that place this morning. We think Mr. Cummings has other attractions in that place besides the gas fields. How about it, Martin?—Renovo Evening News.

Mr. John Cummings visited at Renovo Tuesday.

Judge Walker is felling much better this morning.

Miss Myrtle Newton is spending the winter months at Niagara Falls.

L. E. Runals, of Arcade, N. Y., is the guest of F. S. Coppersmith and family.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. William Sprung, Jr., a boy, Tuesday, Nov. 29th.

Mr. Robt. Lyons, chemist at Emporium Powder Company, will be married some time next month.

Mrs. Geo. McWilliams and son Stewart, of P[illegible] Buffalo, N. Y., was guest of F. S. Coppersmith and family a few days last week.

Parker Jackson, New Warner porter, is laid up with one of Job's comforters. Larry Smith is attending to his duties during his severe misery.

Druggist R. C. Dodson has been confined to his residence this week, all on account of a good cold caught while hunting. James M. Davison, the veteran druggist, is helping out.

Mr. Joseph Newton, in charge of the Emporium Furnace Supply Company's dry goods department, has returned to the store, after three weeks illness. Mr. Newton is one of the most competent dry goods men in the country.

Miss Jean McNarney, of Emporium, who was the guest of Celia Gleason Saturday and Sunday and who came down to attend the latter's birthday party, had the misfortune to fall on the stairs and injure her back. Although unable to take part in the games she took pleasure in seeing the others enjoy themselves and declared that she had a very nice time. Dr. Corbett prescribed for her and Mrs. Gleason gave the injury a good application of liniment and the little Miss got up Sunday morning considerably improved. She was too heroic to admit just how badly she felt but her friends hope nothing serious will result.—Yesterday's Driftwood Gazette.

No More Suffering.

If you are troubled with indigestion get a bottle of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and see how quickly it will cure you. Geo. A. Thompson, of Spencer, Ia., says: "Have had Dyspepsia for twenty years. My case was almost hopeless. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure was recommended and I used a few bottles of it and it is the only thing that has relieved me. Would not be without it. Have doctored with local physicians and also at Chicago, and even went to Norway with hopes of getting some relief, but Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the only remedy that has done me any good, and I heartily recommend it. Every person suffering with Indigestion or Dyspepsia should use it." Sold by R. C. Rodson.

A man who is pound-foolish isn't necessarily penny-wise.

A Costly Mistake.

Blunders are sometimes very expensive. Occasionally life itself is the price of a mistake, but you'll never be wrong if you take Dr. King's New Life Pills for Dyspepsia, Dizziness, Headache, Liver or Bowel troubles. They are gentle yet thorough. 25c, at L. Taggart's Drug Store.

The Americ an Woman.

It is a fact that American women have degenerated in point of health and physique until they have literally became a race of invalids. Thompson's Barosma will remove that sallow complexion, that tired feeling, that bearing down sensation. Thompson's Barosma invigorates all the organs, strengthens and builds up the entire system. All druggists. $1 per bottle, 6 for $5.

Some men attempt to cure the blues by painting things red.

Nervousness.

The most deceptive cause for nervousness is when the kidneys are affected. When the kidneys are congested for diseased it affects the great nerves connecting them with the stomach and the heart. The stomach is constantly getting out of order and bloating and palpitation of the heart sets in leading many to believe that they are suffering from nervousness, stomach trouble and heart disease. Thompson's Barosma at once corrects the kidney, soothes the nerves and restores the stomach and heart to their normal conditions. Thompson's Barosma is pleasant to take. For sale by R. C. Dodson.

Her Case Is Hopeless.

A little girl became so accustomed to exaggeration and misstatement that nobody could believe her, and her parents were greatly annoyed by the unfortunate reputation that she was acquiring.

One afternoon her mother said to her: "Now, listen, Lillian, and heed my words. What has happened to one sinner may easily happen to another. You know what happened to Ananias and Sapphira, don't you?"

"Yes'm, I do. They fell dead on the street corner, and I saw 'em carried into a drug store."

Loyal to the Last.

"Weren't you slightly annoyed by the manner in which your wife played when she was your partner at whist?" "No," answered Mr. Meekton stoutly; "I wasn't annoyed. I was puzzled. I couldn't help wondering who made that fool assertion about its being wrong to trump your partner's ace."—Washington Star.

Mothers and Daughters

Every woman who has a grown daughter knows well the worry and anxiety which always comes at that period of life when girlhood merges into womanhood. Upon a girl's condition at this time depends her future health, strength and happiness. Too much care can not be taken to see that she passes through this period safely.

AUNT DINAH'S OLD VIRGINIA
Herb Tea

is of the greatest assistance to nature in bringing about the change which takes place, without disarranging the natural functions of the system. It is a strengthening tonic. It will keep the roses in a girl's cheeks and prevent that tendency to decline which so often endangers her life at this critical point in development.

This Herb Tea is likewise of corresponding value and assistance to matrons and mothers at the end of this period. Its use will at this time prevent endless pain and worry. A woman will enter the evening of life with scarcely the knowledge that the change has occurred. Many are the thankful women who know the value of Aunt Dinah's Old Virginia Herb Tea and are grateful for the benefits derived from its use.

CLARE'S HOLIDAY

By EDITH M. BLANCHARD

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

OUTSIDE, the snow lay thick and white. Inside, a young girl stared out upon it with unseeing eyes. Some fine lace that she was making had slipped unheeded to her lap, and she did not notice the tiny blasts of cold that swept in through the cracks near the window, sometimes with such force that they stirred the locks of her rich brown hair.

For a long time she sat thinking; then, suddenly, a sleigh dashed rapidly by, leaving a confused picture of splendid horses, flashing harnesses, fur robes and tinkling bells. She drew back quickly; but not before the man in the sleigh had seen her and lifted his cap. With a tinge of color in her cheeks she picked up the lace and began to work rapidly, just as the door was thrown open.

"Well, Clare, working as hard as ever, I see!" was the visitor's greeting. She was very fashionably dressed. Even her voice had the latest fashionable drawl. Clare thought involuntarily of a fashion plate as she helped remove the costly furs and expensive hat.

"I passed the senator as I came in," she remarked, with a sharp, inquisitive glance, seating herself on the wide window seat, where she could see everything inside or outside the room. A trifle more color came to Clare's cheeks.

"Yes, I saw his drive by," she answered. Then there was silence. The visitor drummed on the window pane.

"Well," she finally inquired, "haven't you anything to tell me? Isn't it settled yet? Haven't you seen the folly of sticking here, when you might have more money than you could spend—"

"And a disreputable old man thrown in!" flashed Clare. "Now, let's not go all over the old ground again. We have done it so often before, you know, with no good results. I have as much right to my opinions as you have to yours. You made your own choice, and took wealth and position—and the man! But why bother about me? You have everything you want."

"Yes, and some things I don't want—among them a sister who disgraces me!"

Clare looked up proudly. "You will apologize for that word, or you and I will never meet again," she said, calmly. Mrs. Singleton saw the danger signal in her eyes.

"Oh, I will, of course!" she exclaimed. "But I really do not know what word to use in its place. You are the one thing that keeps me back, socially; every once in a while people mention my 'seamstress sister.' Ever since Lady Herford heard it she has taken pains to inquire for you every time we meet. I was not invited to her last dinner, either, and I am sure it was on account of you," she finished, in an aggrieved tone.

"Poor Julia!" exclaimed her sister, half mockingly. "I am not a seamstress. But don't you think they would better call me one than to say I sold myself for gold?"

Mrs. Singleton shrugged her shoulders.

"If you are going to get personal, I think I'll go," she said, rising. "But, Clare, if you won't say 'yes' to the senator, please, oh, please leave all this and live with me. Perhaps society will take you back after a while."

A peculiar smile flitted across Clare's face.

"Do you really think so?" she inquired. Mrs. Singleton pondered.

"Yes, I do," she finally said. "Of course it will mean a lot of hard work; they won't forget for a long while. But I think it might be managed."

Then Clare laughed outright, and laughed again at Mrs. Singleton's surprise.

"Let me see, Julia," she said gently. "It is now six months since father died and I came here to earn my own living by painting and making lace. Yes, I know I refused to share your home, and insisted on coming to this 'unfashionable street.' And this, you say, has cost me my position in society? Will you open that top drawer of the desk? See what is there."

"Why, it is full of letters—invitations!" exclaimed Mrs. Singleton, doing as she was requested. "What! Do you mean to say you've been receiving them all the time?"

"Several every day," carelessly.

"And you never told me! You always were the oddest person I ever saw, and—what's this? The Hon. George Verner's dinner and Louis Beresford's!" she exclaimed, enviously. "Lady Herford's, too!" she almost screamed. "And you refused invitations that half the town would have given anything to get! Are you crazy?"

"No, not quite," laughed Clare. "But I think I shall be if you do not go soon, Julia. You get me all 'muddled up,' as old mammy used to say, and I can't work so well. Here, let me hold your coat."

Mrs. Singleton dressed silently. She was too dazed to speak. As she started to go she brightened up for a moment.

"Of course they knew you would decline,' 'she explained, "and they invited you just to spite me. Good-by, dear!"

The lace fell unheeded again when Clare was once more alone.

"And that is the world I have left!" she whispered.

"And the world that is calling me to return! Never!" she exclaimed aloud. "I was undecided before Julia came; now, I am sure of myself. It is clear that I can never live with her, nor allow her to help me; and better live here alone forever than marry the senator, or any other man simply for money. There, I will settle that matter at once."

Flinging her work aside she crossed to the desk and wrote rapidly. Then she ran down the stairs and dropped the note into a letter box just across the street. When she returned she waltzed gaily around the room. She had acquired the habit of talking to herself, for at time it was a relief to hear even her own voice break the silence.

"Good-by to the senator forever," she sang. "Farewell to his money and all that it can buy! Why, I believe I feel better already. I believe it was that money that was making me blue. Now I will work hard; for I like work and the life here—all but Sundays and holidays—they drag!"

Thanksgiving day had just passed. Clare had spent it alone, trying to think of a long list of reasons for being thankful. Some way the list was rather short. Her mind had persisted in veering off to a certain young man with boyish face and laughing eyes—a friend of long ago. She kept wondering why he had gone away so suddenly. At times she had thought that his eyes told a story that would have been worth listening to; but he had gone without a word. Since she had been living alone she had thought of him often.

The senator, and all the advantages he could offer, being definitely refused, Clare grew brighter, and the tired look left her face. She often sang light-heartedly, as the days flew on toward Christmas. All invitations were refused, and on Christmas morning she arose as usual and began to paint. Soon she threw down her brush in despair.

"It's no use; I can't to-day!" she said, mournfully. "I do really hate holidays. Everything will go all right to-morrow, but for to-day—I must give it up!"

To pass the time away she began to look through some of her father's old books; but her mind still wandered off to the laughing blue eyes. She remembered, with a start, that it was just one year since she had seen him. There had been company—she had slipped away to the library for a stolen glimpse of a book she was reading. He had followed and they had a happy half hour together. Then some one called, and when at last she returned the room was empty. She had never seen him since. What was it she had been reading? Oh, yes, 'Vanity Fair!' She looked through the books, and when she found it touched it tenderly. They had discussed it together! Someway, the laughing blue eyes seemed very near her now.

"If he had said only one word," she murmured.

Suddenly something white and bulky fell from the book to her lap She caught her breath as she saw that it was a letter with an unbroken seal. She knew the writing—and her hands trembled. In a flash she saw it all He had left it in the book she had been reading, thinking she would find it at once. And she had not opened the book since! As she read, tears filled her eyes; it was the outpouring of a boyish soul, revealing his love and asking her to wait. When she reached the end she bowed her head and wept tears of joy.

"I would rather have one letter like this," she sobbed, "than a thousand senators, with all their money! I do not think I dislike holidays so much, after all!"

Christmas evening was spent in writing page after page of explanations. There were so many that the letter was much over weight.

The last days of the year slipped rapidly by, and no reply came. Clare began to look anxious. All sorts of fears beset her; she could not account for his silence. Finally came the last day of the year—and still no reply.

"Another holiday to-morrow!" Clare groaned. "How I hate them!" She retired early and cried herself to sleep, dreaming all night of deaths, sickness, murders, fires and many horrible, impossible things. A vigorous knocking awoke her early in the morning.

"Telegram, ma'am!" said a voice. Clare dressed as hastily as possible, a terrible fear at her heart. Her dreams must have meant trouble of some kind, and she felt that it had come Trembling, she tore open the envelope.

"Happy New Year for us both. Will arrive to-day. Letter just received.

"FRANK."

"Oh, I wish I had never said such horrid things about holidays!" exclaimed Clare, with solemn joy.

Sugar-Gloss on Butter.

A singular method of protecting rolls of butter from deterioration due to outside influences is practiced in Germany. It consists simply in coating the butter with a glaze of melted sugar laid on with a soft brush. The surface of the butter is slightly melted and a protective varnish is formed. The process has recently been employed on a large scale in England.

As an encouragement to school children to be regular and punctual in their attendance at school, the Surrey county (England) education committee has decided to give them picture postcards bearing views of places of historic and local interest in the county.

Short Telegrams FROM THE Theater of War

FIERCE BLAZE RAGED AT PORT ARTHUR.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 25.—Unofficial advices only bring affairs at the front up to November 23, and the absence of official news of later date, either from the Japanese or the Russian side, arouses the belief that more important operations than heretofore may be progressing. Reports from correspondents at the front indicate renewed skirmishing, culminating the night of November 22 in a fresh attack on Poutiloff (Lone Tree) Hill, in which the Japanese were repulsed with heavy loss, and also a severe fight with Chinese bandits near Kaiuan.

London, Nov. 25.—The correspondent at Moscow of the Daily Telegraph claims authority for the statement that Gen. Stoessel's dispatch sent by the torpedo boat Rastoropny informed Emperor Nicholas that the Port Arthur garrison was being starved out.

Tokio, Nov. 25.—Telegraphing yesterday the headquarters of the army before Port Arthur reports:

"The conflagration in the buildings near the arsenal, caused by our naval guns, which began about noon November 22, continued until 2 o'clock on the morning of Nover 23. It is probable that the coal stores have been burned."

Manchurian headquarters in a telegram dated November 23, reports:

"At midnight November 22, 600 of the enemy's infantry attacked Singluntun. Our advanced pickets, after resisting the attack for several hours, safely retired to the main body. The village was entirely burned by the enemy.

"At dawn November 23 the enemy made several surprise attacks near the Shakhe railway bridge and at Paotzuyen, but the attacks were entirely repulsed."

Che Foo, Nov. 25.—The report that the steamer Tungchow, laden with 30,000 tins of meat, was captured by the Japanese on Wednesday while trying to enter Port Arthur, appears to be correct. The Tungchow was a British vessel.

Headquarters of the Third Japanese Army Before Port Arthur, Nov. 25.—The only permanent forts in the possession of the Japanese are the two Panlung forts captured in August. They hold the advance works of the Rihlung redoubt, called Fort Kuropatkin, an entrenched hill miscalled P fort, Kobu Hill, Sachitakiyama and One Hundred and Seventy-four Meter Hill.

They also occupy the galleries and moats of the two Rihlung forts and North Kekwan fort.

EMPEROR NICHOLAS GAVE ZEMSTOVISTS A HEARING.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 26.—The unexpected may happen after all. The meeting of Zemstvoists may indeed work the inauguration of a new era for Russia. Emperor Nicholas, the initiator of the plan for universal disarmament, may turn back upon the reactionaries and crown his reign by granting to his subjects the constitution which his grandfather had already prepared when he fell by the hand of an assassin.

The basis of such a possibility is the significant fact that yesterday the emperor received in the palace at Tsarskoe-Selo four prominent members of the Zemstvo congress.

They explained fully their position and reiterated the views expressed by the memorial that the salvation of the empire from ruin by revolution lay in the adoption of the ideas expressed in the memorial. The emperor was greatly impressed by what he heard and asked many questions. While it is understood that he gave no indication of his purposes except the sympathy he displayed, the deputation, when they returned to St. Petersburg, were in high spirits.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 26.—There is an entire lack of news from the front. The report that the Japanese are concentrating their energies for a desperate assault on Port Arthur, in view of the approach of the Baltic squadron, is generally credited.

Long Standing Suit Settled.

St. Louis, Nov. 23.—Judge Wood, of the circuit court, in the case of Henry Nicolaus against Charles H. Turner, formerly president of the Suburban Railroad Co., the German Savings Institution, Ellis Wainwright and others, decided yesterday that the plaintiff was entitled to recover $75,000, the "boodle" fund placed on deposit with the Lincoln Trust Co. by the Suburban Railroad Co. to bribe members of the house of delegates, for the reason that "Mr. Nicolaus was ignorant of the purposes for which the money was to be applied."

Ship and Crew Probably Lost.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—The British steamer Aros Castle, Capt. Day, 57 days out from Java with a cargo of sugar, arrived at this port Monday and reported the probable foundering on November 15 of the Spanish bark Tafalla with her crew of 15 men during the recent southern storm.

Passenger Train Wrecked.

Hoxie, Ark., Nov. 23.—Passenger train No. 17, southbound from St. Louis, known as the Hot Springs special, on the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern railroad, yesterday ran into an extra freight train which was taking the siding at Swifton, a small town 20 miles south of here. Harry Wells, fireman of No. 17, was burned to death and Engineer A. DeGuire, of the same train, was badly hurt. Fifteen passengers were slightly injured. The passenger engine was demolished and three coaches and ten freight cars loaded were burned.

BITS BY THE WAY.

The average age at which women marry in civilized countries is 23½ years.

In hilly Thibet little donkeys are placed in a bag fastened to the mother's back when she makes a long trip.

Moonshine has been found to have a marked effect on stammering. People so afflicted stammer most at the full of the moon.

Two hundred men at Bird Springs, Lincoln county, Nev., have notified the county clerk that they do not wish to cast their ballots at the coming election. They say that they are too busy and desire that precinct lately created in that district be discontinued.

Johnny Barwic, a Canadian boy, who has been attending school at Pomona, Cal., refused, the other morning, to salute the American flag when it was raised on the school building and was expelled, the board of education subsequently approving his expulsion.

A man in San Francisco fell off an electric car in such a manner that he skidded along the rough street in a sitting posture for several yards. Had he been carryng a pocket flask or a pistol in his hip pocket he probably would have been badly hurt, but as he had a good, thick prayer book there, a pair of badly torn trousers and a few bruises formed the sum of his damages.

"WHACKS"

And What They Mean.

When Old Mother Nature gives you a "whack," remember "there's a reason," so try and say "thank you," then set about finding what you have done to demand the rebuke, and try and get back into line, for that's the happy place after all.

Curious how many highly organized people fail to appreciate and heed the first little, gentle "whacks" of the good old Dame, but go right along with the habit, whatever it may be, that causes her disapproval. Whisky, Tobacco, Coffee, Tea or other unnatural treatment of the body, until serious illness sets in or some chronic disease.

Some people seem to get on very well with those things for awhile, and Mother Nature apparently cares but little what they do.

Perhaps she has no particular plans for them and thinks it little use to waste time in their training.

There are people, however, who seem to be selected by Nature to "do things." The old Mother expects them to carry out some department of her great work. A portion of these selected ones oft and again seek to stimulate and then deaden the tool (the body) by some one or more of the drugs—Whisky, Tobacco, Coffee, Tea, Morphine, etc.

You know all of these throw down the same class of alkaloids in Chemical analysis. They stimulate and then depress. They take from man or woman the power to do his or her best work.

After these people have drugged for a time, they get a hint, or mild "whack," to remind them that they have work to do, a mission to perform, and should be about the business, but are loafing along the wayside and become unfitted for the fame and fortune that waits for them if they but stick to the course and keep the body clear of obstructions so it can carry out the behests of the mind.

Sickness is a call to "come up higher." These hints come in various forms. It may be stomach trouble or bowels, heart, eyes, kidneys or general nervous prostration. You may depend upon it when a "whack" comes it's a warning to quit some abuse and do the right and fair thing with the body.

Perhaps it is coffee drinking that offends. That is one of the greatest causes of human disorder among Americans.

Now, then, if Mother Nature is gentle with you and only gives light little "whacks" at first to attract attention, don't abuse her consideration, or she will soon hit you harder, sure.

And you may also be sure she will hit you very, very hard if you insist on following the way you have been going.

It seems hard work to give up a habit, and we try all sorts of plans to charge our ill feelings to some other cause than the real one.

Coffee drinkers when ill will attribute the trouble to bad food, malaria, overwork and what not, but they keep on being sick and gradually getting worse, until they are finally forced to quit entirely, even the "only one cup a day." Then they begin to get better, and unless they have gone long enough to set up some fixed organic disease, they generally get entirely well.

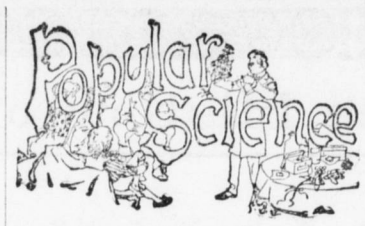
It is easy to quit coffee at once and for all, by having well made Postum, with its rich, deep, seal brown color which comes to the beautiful golden brown when good cream is added, and the crisp snap of good, mild Java is there if the Postum has been boiled long enough to bring it out.

It pays to be well and happy for good old Mother Nature then sends us her blessings of many and various kinds and helps us to gain fame and fortune.

Strip off the handicaps, leave out the deadening habits, heed Mother Nature's hints, quit being a loser and become a winner. She will help you sure if you cut out the things that keep you back.

"There's a reason," and a profound one.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."



BUILDING PEARY'S SHIP.

Vessel in Which the Explorer Will Make Another Attempt to Reach North Pole.

The vessel for the next Peary expedition to the north is to be built this winter at Verona, 19 miles down the Penobscot from Bangor, Me. Commander Robert E. Peary has been busy superintending some changes in the plans for the model ship.

Great secrecy is maintained as to the design of the vessel, and photographers are not allowed in or near the model loft. Commander Peary will not allow any photographs to be made of the model until after the ship has been framed out, nor will he allow sketches or drawings to be made.

A crew of carpenters is at work building a shed, 250 feet long, 60 feet wide and 50 feet high, under which the vessel is to be constructed. This building is to be heated by steam and lighted by electricity, so that no time may be lost, as the contract calls for the delivery of the vessel at Portland, ready to receive her machinery, on February 15. Shipbuilding out-of-doors in Maine winter weather is pretty slow and rather uncomfortable work.

Thus far a little work has been done on the stern frame, but no great progress can be made until the arrival from Virginia of the oak timbers for the keel, and these timbers have been delayed by an accident on a railroad near Washington.

The keel will be very heavy, consisting of three sawed oak timbers, each 6 by 6 inches, making when joined a 6x18 keel.

These are to be planked with 6inch hard pine, planed and calked, and outside of that there will be oak sheathing, planed and calked, with iron sheathing over all.

Commander Peary said in an interview that his voyage this time would probably occupy not less than 15 months, and, should the weather be severe, might be extended to 27 months. He continued:

"This new ship will be 184 feet long on deck, 35 feet beam and 16 feet 9 inches depth of hold. She will have an extra heavy frame of Virginia oak, with double bottom frames, and heavily banked up with timber fore and aft.

"She will not be a three-masted schooner with auxiliary steam, but a steamer with auxiliary sail—about 2,000 square yards on three pole masts. We shall depend chiefly on the steam power, using sail only when convenient or in case her coal should become exhausted.

"Her engines will be of 1,000 indicated horse-power, but capable of developing, for limited periods, 1,500 horse-power. That will make her by far the most powerful ship ever constructed for the arctic voyage, the best ship before this having had only about 450 horse-power.

"I shall fit out in New York, and probably sail from there in the early part of July. We shall have only one substation for this expedition, that being at Cape Sabine, in 79 degrees north latitude, and I shall leave supplies there in care of the natives. Then we shall go north in the steamer as far as 83 degrees, which will be within 500 miles of the pole.

"Probably we shall be frozen in there, and then we shall leave the vessel and make the dash overland by sledges for the pole. We may be able to get further north than 83 degrees with the steamer. That will depend on what kind of a season we have.

"There will not be more than 15 men in the party this time. My daughter may go as far as Cape Sabine, but if so she will return at the end of the summer."

SOMETHING FOR MEN FOLKS

Novel Trousers Creaser Which May Be Used Without Removing the Garment to Be Pressed.

An Illinois inventor has recently devised a novel form of iron for creasing trousers. It consists of a pair of rollers mounted upon a pair of handles, which are hinged together in the manner of a pair of tongs. The device may be heated by a gas jet or otherwise, and the garment is then creased by being passed between the rollers. The inner ends of the rollers are slightly beveled so that no noticeable line will be formed between the pressed and unpressed portions of the trousers. One of the handles is formed with an arm which extends from one of the rollers to the other, and is provided with a slot adapted to engage the pivot stud of the latter roller, thus limiting its movement. The arm also serves as a guide to limit the extent to which the cloth may be inserted between the rollers. The principal advantage of this device lies in the fact that it may be used for creasing the trousers without removing the garment from the wearer.—Scientific American.

AN INGENIOUS TENT BED.

New York Inventor's Idea Does Away with Necessity of Sleeping Close to Ground.

Camping-out parties have become so popular in the past few years that the demand for improvements that will make camping out less of a hardship and more of a pleasure has been general all over the country. Mutual friends often organize into a small club with the intention of procuring an outfit and "roughing it" for a week or so, and the outing generally is a beneficial change from the daily routine duties at home. One of the dangers attached to camping out is the necessity of sleeping close to the ground, and those who are not accustomed to this generally suffer from malaria and sometimes rheumatism. To overcome this disadvantage a New York man has devised the tent bed shown in the illustration, the idea of which is very simple and at the same time substantial. An ordinary tent is supported by means of end posts and, if necessary, also a center post, connected to the upper horizontal ridge pole, to which is suspended at regular intervals any number of suspending bands. The sides of the tent have an equal number of elongated openings about two feet from the ground in alignment with the bands, these bands being designed to connect with similar bands attached to the under side of the bed or stretcher. Guy ropes are also connected with the ends of the stretcher bands, making the support more secure and taking away any undue strain from the sides of the tent. From the ridge are suspended a series of ropes, which hold the bed in the center. By using hooks for fastening means the bed can be quickly folded up when not in use, leaving the interior of the tent unincumbered.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

POWER FROM THE WAVES.

New Device Which Is Being Used by an Inventor at Los Angeles, California.

Running water has long been utilized for generating motive power, but it has only recently been found practicable to utilize waves for the same purpose. It has been demonstrated that motive power, which would be useful for many purposes, can be generated by the motion of the waves and that power so obtained is far superior to that from a running stream. A Los Angeles man, John Henry Smith, has devised a very durable and compact apparatus for obtaining power from waves, an illustration of which is shown here, the apparatus being mounted upon a pier or wharf. Connected to the main driving wheel, which is about 30 feet in diameter and is mounted on a stationary shaft or axle, is a hub with a metal extension having an inner periphery provided with teeth. A bar is secured to a weighted float in the water—this float preferably being a vessel filled with water—and connected with a quick acting ratchet clutch in the hub of the driving wheel. The motion of the waves is transmitted to the float, which moves the bar up and down, rotating the fly wheel. This fly wheel, of course, could be connected to other pulleys and the power obtained used for any purpose desired. Choppy waves would tend to transmit power at a comparatively high rate of speed, thus making it unnecessary to employ any considerable amount of gearing. An adjustable means is also provided by which the apparatus can be easily and quickly adjusted to the different states of the body of water upon which it is used, and also act as a protection in case of storm.

Plating Aluminum.

One great drawback to the use of aluminum is the rapidity with which its surface becomes dull and leaden. It has been tried to overcome this by electroplating, but so far without success. A process has now been discovered by which a thin coat of zinc may be spread over the aluminum so as to take a plating of any other metal.

The Secret of Hot Springs.

Prof. Bertram Boltwood, a Yale scientist, after an extended investigation, declared that the health giving power in hot springs is their radio activity. He has examined the waters of many American and European hot springs.

Miss Rose Peterson, Secretary Parkdale Tennis Club, Chicago, from experience advises all young girls who have pains and sickness peculiar to their sex, to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many beautiful young girls develop into worn, listless and hopeless women, simply because sufficient attention has not been paid to their physical development. No woman is exempt from physical weakness and periodic pain, and young girls just budding into womanhood should be carefully guided physically as well as morally.

If you know of any young lady who is sick, and needs motherly advice, ask her to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., who will give her advice free, from a source of knowledge which is unequalled in the country. Do not hesitate about stating details which one may not like to talk about, and which are essential for a full understanding of the case.

Miss Hannah E. Mershon, Collingswood, N. J., says:

"I thought I would write and tell you that, by following your kind advice, I feel like a new person. I was always thin and delicate, and so weak that I could hardly do anything. Menstruation was irregular.

"I tried a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and began to feel better right away. I continued its use, and am now well and strong, and menstruate regularly. I cannot say enough for what your medicine did for me."

How Mrs. Pinkham Helped Fannie Kumpe.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it is my duty to write and tell you of the benefit I have derived from your advice and the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The pains in my back and womb have all left me, and my menstrual trouble is corrected. I am very thankful for the good advice you gave me, and I shall recommend your medicine to all who suffer from female weakness." —MISS FANNIE KUMPE, 1922 Chester St., Little Rock, Ark. (Dec. 16, 1900.)

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure any woman in the land who suffers from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability, nervous prostration, and all forms of woman's special ills.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

The reason W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the greatest sellers in the world is because of their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities. If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes and the high-grade leathers used, you would understand why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day, and why the sales for the year ending July 1, 1904, were $6,263,040.00.

W. L. Douglas guarantees their value by stamping his name and price on the bottom. Look for it—take no substitute. Sold by shoe dealers everywhere.

SUPERIOR IN FIT, COMFORT AND WEAR.

"I have worn W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes for the last twelve years with absolute satisfaction. I find them superior in fit, comfort and wear to others costing from $5.00 to $7.00."—B. S. McCUE, Dept. Col., U. S. Int. Revenue, Richmond, Va.
